TECH & COMMS · CRAWFORD UNIVERSITY

Quiz Cards

32 question slips. Print, cut along the dashed lines, fold, and put each topic in its own bowl. After each talk, two students draw a slip from that topic's bowl. The panel cards are extras for the end if time allows. The host answer sheet follows the cards; keep it with the host and do not cut it up.

Host Answer Sheet

Accept any answer that shows the right idea, in the student's own words.

Topic 01 Communications: School vs Reality

Q1. Apart from customers, name two groups a company's communications team talks to.

Any two: employees, investors or shareholders, regulators or government, the media, the local community, partners or suppliers.

Q2. What is the difference between PR and advertising?

Advertising is paid space the brand controls. PR earns attention and coverage, and manages reputation and relationships.

Q3. What is a press release? Name one thing every press release should include.

An official news statement sent to the media. Any one: a clear headline, date and place, the who/what/when/where/why, a quote, a contact person, an "about the company" paragraph.

Q4. What is a "holding statement" in a crisis?

A short first statement that acknowledges the issue and says more will follow, released while the facts are still being gathered.

Q5. What is internal communications?

Communicating with a company's own employees.

Q6. What is a brand's "tone of voice"?

The consistent personality and style of the language a brand uses.

Q7. Name one way technology has changed how brands communicate in Nigeria.

Any reasonable answer: social media, real-time responses, WhatsApp channels, influencers and creators, data and analytics, online customer service.

Q8. In a crisis, why should a brand respond quickly?

If it stays silent, others fill the gap with rumours and the story runs without the brand's side.

Topic 02 Media Monitoring, Intelligence and AI

Q1. What is media monitoring?

Tracking what is said about a brand, person or issue across news, broadcast and social media.

Q2. How is social listening different from media monitoring?

Monitoring tracks mentions. Listening analyses the wider conversation (sentiment, themes, trends) to understand why people are talking and what to do next.

Q3. What does "sentiment" mean in media analysis?

Whether coverage or comments are positive, negative or neutral.

Q4. What is "share of voice"?

A brand's share of the conversation or coverage compared with its competitors.

Q5. Give one example of an output and one example of an outcome.

Output: number of articles, posts or impressions. Outcome: a change in awareness, attitude or behaviour, for example more sign-ups or better reviews.

Q6. What is AVE, and why do practitioners no longer recommend it?

Advertising Value Equivalency: valuing coverage at what the same space would cost as an ad. It says nothing about the impact of the coverage, so industry principles reject it.

Q7. Name one task AI can help a communicator with.

Any one: summarising coverage, monitoring mentions at scale, sorting sentiment, drafting first versions, translating, spotting trends.

Q8. Name one thing AI should not do alone in communications.

Any one: sign off a crisis statement, make ethical calls, publish without fact-checking, replace relationships with journalists or stakeholders.

Topic 03 Building a Personal Brand

Q1. Name three parts of a LinkedIn profile people see first.

Profile photo, headline, name. Also accepted: banner image, the About section.

Q2. What makes a good LinkedIn headline for a student?

It says who you are and what you are working towards (for example "Mass Comm student | Writing about PR and brand storytelling"), not just "Student".

Q3. Finish the line: "The story worth telling isn't 'I made it.' It's…"

"…here's who I'm becoming."

Q4. Name two things a student can post about before they have "made it".

Any two: class projects, events attended, lessons learned, opinions on industry news, internships, volunteering, books or courses.

Q5. Why does consistency matter more than perfection?

Showing up regularly builds visibility and trust over time; waiting for perfect means not showing up at all.

Q6. What is a portfolio? Name one thing a Mass Comm student could put in it.

A collection of your work. Any one: articles, press releases, campaign ideas, designs, videos, podcasts, social media work.

Q7. Name one mistake to avoid when building a personal brand online.

Any one: posting carelessly or offensively, an unprofessional photo, copying others, long silences, saying one thing and doing another.

Q8. What is networking? Name one place a student can do it.

Building professional relationships. Any one: events like this one, LinkedIn, alumni associations, internships, student associations.

Panel You Media and the New Landscape

Q1. What does "You Media" mean?

Individuals with their own platforms now act as media, alongside newspapers and broadcasters.

Q2. Who were the traditional "gatekeepers" of news?

Editors, publishers and broadcasters, who decided what became news.

Q3. Name two platforms people use to stream or go live.

Any two: YouTube, TikTok, Instagram Live, Facebook Live, X Spaces, Twitch.

Q4. What is user-generated content?

Content created by ordinary users rather than by brands or media houses.

Q5. Name one risk of everyone being their own media.

Any one: misinformation, no fact-checking, rumours spreading fast, harassment.

Panel Communications in Humanitarian Work

Q1. Name one way communications is used in humanitarian work.

Any one: raising awareness, fundraising, informing affected communities, reporting to donors, advocacy, crisis information.

Q2. What does "informed consent" mean when telling someone's story?

The person understands how their story or photo will be used and agrees to it freely.

Q3. Name one career path for Mass Comm graduates outside media and PR agencies.

Any one: NGOs and humanitarian work, development, government, health communication, tech companies, corporate communications.
